

Computers, Servers, and Printing

My workstation's hard drive is full. How can I free up space on it?

There are several methods to free up hard disk space:

1. Empty the recycle bin.
 - Right click on the recycling bin on the desktop and press Empty Recycle Bin.
2. Perform a disk cleanup:
 - Press the Windows key or click on the start menu.
 - Start typing disk cleanup and press enter.
 - Select the files you wish to delete.
3. Change how much mail to keep offline (Outlook, Windows 10).

Click File > Account Settings > Account Settings.

- Select your Exchange or Office 365 account, and then click Change.
 - Under Offline Settings, move the slider to 3 months. Note - this will not delete the existing emails, only prevent copies from being held past 3 months.
 - Close and restart Outlook.
4. If the hard drive is still close to being full, please contact ithelp@glendon.yorku.ca

Unique solution ID: #1055
Author: Jędrzey L Misiek
Last update: 2019-08-26 20:47